Mayra's Biography

Mayra de Aguiar has honed the ability to efficiently compose winning narratives and craft innovative, effective trial plans over her twenty years of practice. As a result, she is particularly skilled in last-minute trial preparation.

A seasoned litigator at both the trial and appellate levels, Mayra's practice focuses on contract disputes, complex civil litigation, class action litigation, product liability, and employment litigation. She has represented every side of litigation—plaintiff, defense, and in-house counsel—with clients ranging from individual plaintiffs, to mom-and-pop shops, to Fortune 500 companies.

Mayra's clients span a wide range of industries, including consumer goods, accounting and finance, technology, film and entertainment, and hospitality. She has particular experience representing Fortune 500 companies and global corporations in national product liability lawsuits. Recently, Mayra helped defeat over a dozen class action lawsuits filed across the U.S. alleging product contamination against a Fortune 500 company.

parties to continue their business relationship for years to follow. After practicing in a large firm, Mayra followed her entrepreneurial spirit and opened her own firm. As a solo practitioner, she gained trial experience in cases ranging from personal injury to medical malpractice; this gave her a keen understanding of the resourcefulness, preparation, and strategy it takes to be a successful trial lawyer.

Mayra has also developed extensive experience in individual employment claims and wage and hour class actions, serving as both the defense and prosecution. Her experience representing individual plaintiffs against their employers provides her with a unique understanding of her adversaries, allowing her to construct the most effective approach in defending employers. Serving as lead defense counsel for two large representative actions brought under the Private Attorneys General Act gave Mayra considerable knowledge of the types of claims that have greatly affected employers across the state, causing a recent surge in employment cases in California.

Prior to joining Willenken, Mayra served as in-house counsel for The Wonderful Company, a multibillion-dollar food industry giant. She spends her spare time with her two adult children and a house full of four-legged creatures. Tapping into her creative side, Mayra enjoys reading, painting, cooking, and playing the guitar.
